About the solution

Why Bootstrap?

I think this framework is very close to your grid system, I can configure any plugin compiled in this project.

All bootstrap .scss are released and compiled into the projects.

I added some missing plugins, almost used in the test, like Datatables, date picker which I don't have in my release version, so I just installed and configured the same code plugin also on main.js

About SASS

These projects includes:

Compass and SASS code.
All grid and features and config in:
/sass/lib/bootstrap/stylesheets/bootstrap/_variables.scss

Custom config are coded in:
screen.scss

Screen.scss also calls the rest of SASS core, bootstrap core and compass libs.

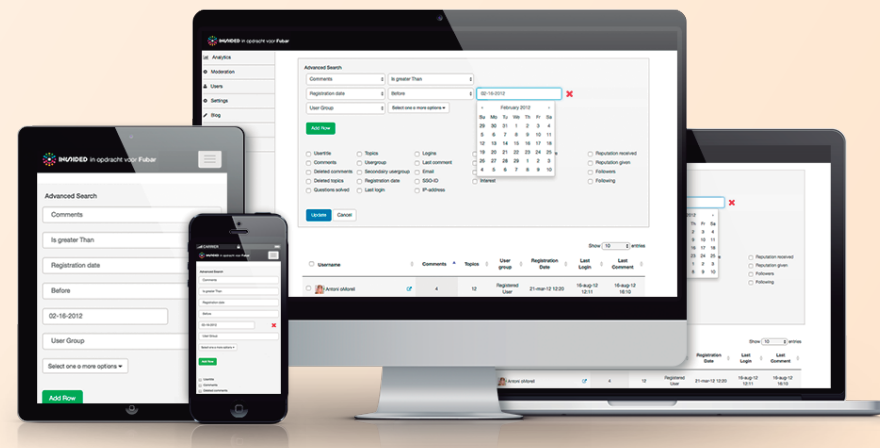

I made all styles as close as possible as png design and focused on a JS features.

Responsive

An easy grid made in bootstrap, provides a flexible layout with a collapsed sidebar feature on devices.

The rest of the layout is also responsive. I think the Data table needs a responsive UX interaction to ensure an optimal experience on devices.

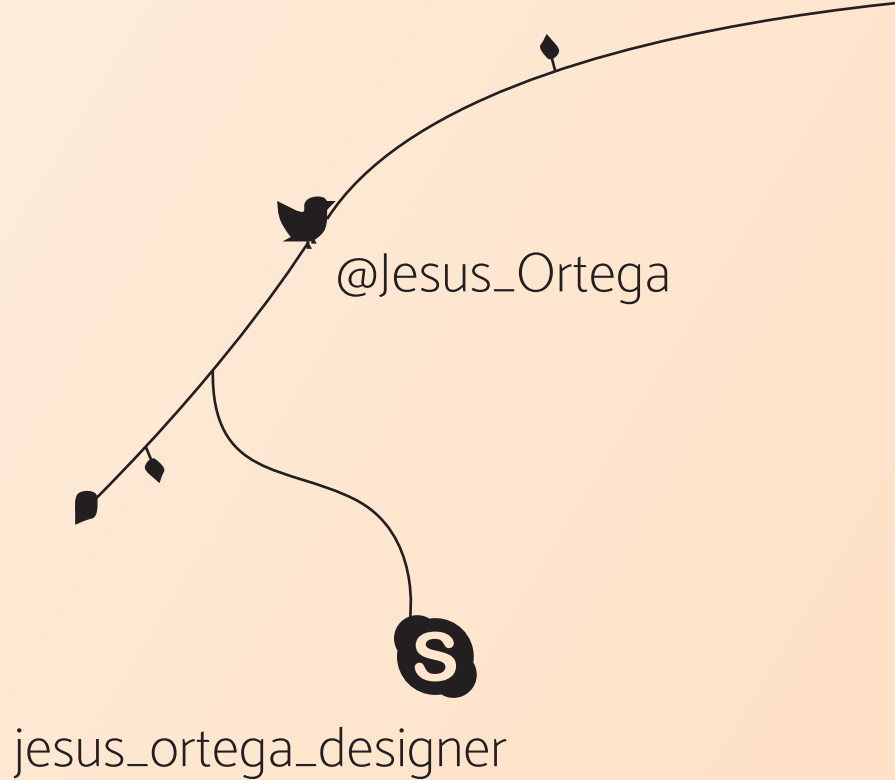

All Grids are customisable in:
/sass/lib/bootstrap/stylesheets/bootstrap/_variables.scss

About this job

I really feel enthusiastic about this job position and I think my profile could be very productive.

As a Frontend Developer with UX and UI experience, I think my work, design and customer experience can be really helpful to understand the customers' needs, and be a part of the new developments, communication skills between front, UX and designers in the company.

About me

As for my profile, I am an experienced Front, UX, UI and web designer with more than 5 years experience on web projects.

I have a strong design background experience from small business companies to highest level customers, international mobile projects and web marketing sales campaigns.

I am a very friendly person making long-lasting personal connections in all the projects that I get involved in. I like design and layout and take on every project as part of myself.

Web design are growing towards UX and UI experience and I focus my career on this way to become a better UX and Front Programmer.
